Parc Cwm Darran is a peaceful, picture-squeue country park set in the heart of the Darran Valley. There are various waymarked walking trails and cycle routes through woods meadows and alongside the Ogilvie Lake. There's also a local nature reserve to visit overfowing with orchids in early summer. With plenty of picnic tables and grassy banks to sit, it's the ideal place for a family day out in the countryside.

The park also offers great opportunities for school and group visits - give us a call to find out more.

Bring your bike and follow the cycle path through the park to Bargoed or Fochriw; you'll find it flat and safe for the children. If they're not tired after that pack them off to the Ogilvie Olympics! And if its refreshment you need, the Lakes Coffee Shop serves fantastic homemade cakes to accompany a pot of tea or coffee.

The Country Park has a children's play area, a health trail and there is also an audio trail to download, with a story about the Country Park.

If you like it here enough not to leave, then don't! We've got a campsite with electric hook-ups, hot showers and washing up facilities; stay the week and explore the area.

South Wales is one of the best places for mountain biking in Europe! You can hire an MP3 player to listen to the audio trail around the Lake from the Visitor Centre.
